- The first Honorary Patron of British Dressage.

About Carl:

Carl learnt to ride at a young age on his home island of Sark, where horses are the only means of getting about. He drove a carriage on the island for tourists until at 16 he moved to mainland Britain where he worked at the Fortune Centre of Riding Therapy in Dorset, where adults with disabilities could learn to ride. Carl began to take an interest in eventing and took the British Horse Society Assistant Instructor exam.

Carl then went to work for Janni and Christopher Taylor in Gloucestershire, where he was given the ride on dressage schoolmaster Slightly Trendy and was subsequently selected for the Young Rider Dressage team. Carl’s attention was then focused on dressage and he was invited to join the renowned dressage trainer Dr Wilfred Bechtolsheimer, where he worked for three-and-a-half years, gaining valuable training and competing opportunities.

Carl then went on to set up a yard with Kate Carter, eventually setting up his own yard in 2004. A World Class Podium rider, Carl has been incredibly successful in his competitive career and is also one of the top dressage trainers in the country, with a lengthy, high profile list of clients. He’s a columnist for Horse & Hound magazine and also has written several dressage books. He received an MBE for services to equestrianism from the Queen in June 2013.
